Drones | Disarmament | Development | Democracy | Human Rights | Peace-building

The economic meltdown of the world economy in Europe and US is diverting attention from important issues of terrorism, development, democracy, human rights and climate change.

These urgent issues cannot be addressed if the Military Industrial Complex keeps spending trillions of dollars engaging from one war to another. Modern warfare is being fought increasingly by automatic warfare conducted by drones and robots, bringing untold violence, bloodshed, suffering and an indirect deaths resulting from hunger and disease.

The million dollar question is how we can stop this war addiction and disarm countries which remain armed and hostile so that war becomes impossible thus paving the way for development, democracy and peace-building.

The distinguished speakers will analyse the issues and discuss campaign strategies, ideas for action with the help of social media and other state of the art proven techniques for building a momentum for World Peace to work for welfare instead of warfare.
